KAHN BEER BILL IS SCORED IN LETTER

SAN FRANCISCO WOMEN QUIZZ FEMALE SOLO

BILL NOT CLEAR TO WOMEN'S COMMITTEE

"Were It a Proposal to Repeal or Modify the Amendment, It Would Be Clear," Says Letter to Author of Bill.

San Francisco.—Expressing bewilderment at the purpose of Congresswoman Florence Prag Kahn's 2.75 beer bill, the San Francisco unit of the Women's Committee of 5,000 in Support of the Constitution and Law Enforcement has sent a questionnaire letter to her at Washington.

The letter is one phase of the furor that has been raised in California women's club circles by Mrs. Kahn's introduction of the bill to permit beer of higher alcoholic content.

"Would not the bill be a violation of the constitution?" is one question asked in the letter. It goes on: "If not, would it not make violation of the constitution easier?" "Is not the bill likely to be misleading?" is another query among the many with which the San Francisco women's letter is studded.

"It is not clear to us . . . what is expected to be accomplished by the bill," the letter says. "Were it a proposal to repeal or modify the eighteenth amendment the object would be clear. But it appears to be an amendment to the enforcement act."

"Captain W. H. Stanyon, executive leader of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, is quoted here as saying with reference to the proposed legislation in congress: 'A beer which is intoxicating in fact is forbidden by the constitution and neither congress nor the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment has a right even to think of authorizing beer which is intoxicating in fact.' We have also been informed that the United States supreme court has declared that congress has power to do but one thing and that is to enforce prohibition."

"Would not a bill providing for real beer, therefore, be a plain violation of the constitution?"

"But if 2.75 per cent is no more intoxicating than the beer now manufactured, we are not clear as to the object in changing the law. The beer permitted would be in fact near beer, not actual beer. If the breweries were allowed to move the alcoholic content up to the very border line of the intoxicant, would it not be easier for them to get over the line and harder for the government to convict them?"

WHOLE STATE BACKS DEVELOPMENT PLAN

Washington.—Approval by the whole state of California of the Swing-Johnson Colorado river development was announced here by Senator Johnson, Republican, California, co-author of the bill, in making public a telegram from members of the state legislature. "Those of us who have been working here day and night in behalf of the Swing-Johnson bill appreciate beyond words the expression of members of the legislature," the California senator said in a formal statement. "It is more than gratifying to find the northern end of the state standing shoulder to shoulder with the southern end in behalf of this tremendous development. Some people north of Tehachapi, perhaps have imagined the Swing-Johnson bill a matter of interest only to the south. It is a project which holds great promise and possibilities for the entire state; and it is a fine thing to have recognized and approved, not by one section alone, but by the whole state of California."

Johnson made public the telegram received from members of the legislature.

Not Sure Ford Airship Will Fly
Washington.—In its negotiations for sale of an all-metal dirigible to the navy the Aircraft Development corporation, backed by the Ford interests, has made no direct guarantee that the craft would leave the ground when completed. Rear Admiral Moffett, the naval air chief, so advised the house naval committee. He said he personally was in doubt how the craft would perform.

Woman Has Five Children in Year
Chandlerville, Ill.—Mrs. Leslie Hobbs, 30 years old, of this city, has added five members to the Cass county population within a year. On January 30, 1925, she gave birth to triplets and recently she again came to the front with a pair of twins. There are four other children in the family.

COOLIDGE AID ASKED BY BERKELEY BANKER

S. S. Smith Wants Farmer Stockholders to Get Greater Control Over the Land Banks of the Country.

Berkeley.—S. S. Smith, local director of the Federal Land bank of Berkeley made public copies of a letter and a petition which he sent to President Coolidge and to congress asking them to modify the farm loan act in a way that will give farmer stockholders greater control over the land banks of the country.

Smith says that although the farmers of the country have more than $50,000,000 invested in the land bank system against about $1,000,000 invested by the government, they have little or nothing to say about the management of the banks.

He says he does not favor placing farmers in actual management of the banks, as many of them lack technical knowledge necessary to efficient bank operation, but that he does favor a system of management that will give the farmers control of the general policies, especially with reference to loans and foreclosures. Not to do this, he fears, will result in the farmers taking over the banks and running them with unsatisfactory results for all.

The petitioner contends that never since the banks have been permanently established has the seventh member of the directorates, who is supposed to represent the public, sided with the farmers. He explains that three directors are named by the farmers' associations, three by the farm loan board and the seventh is appointed by the board from three nominees of the association. This seventh man, he avers, always votes with the loan board's three.

The only alternative to giving farmers more say in management of the land banks, Smith thinks, is for the government to buy their stock and that this would cause the farmers to lose interest and end the whole land bank device.

As an example of how the banks are alleged to function now, the director says the farmer directors are called in and asked to vote yes or no on the approval, already given, of the bank's executive committee on both general policy and loans.

56 YEARS CONTINUAL SERVICE RECORD OF SACRAMENTO MAN

San Francisco.—When Charles C. Trott, locomotive engineer on Sacramento division, stepped down from the cab of locomotive No. 1453, at Sacramento roundhouse December 30, after bringing train No. 55 in from the round trip to Gerber, he brought to a close a career of 56 years, 2 months service on the Southern Pacific lines and for half a century he was in the cab as an engineer.

His long service record is exceeded by that of only one living veteran. Patrick Sheedy, who was with the company three months longer than Trott. Seventy years have been kind to Trott. As he sat in the cab of No. 1453 waiting for the signal to start on his final run, his hand was as steady and his eye as clear as most of the younger engineers.

Charlie Trott went to work as a boy for the Central Pacific at Rocklin, which was a busy railroad point at that time, and it was here that young Trott saw his first locomotive—the little, puffing wood burners "seemed wonderful to the boy."

Master Mechanic M. W. Cooley, who is now 84 years old and living at Santa Barbara, put Charlie to work in November, 1869, cleaning the little engines that were so fascinating to him. Two years later he was given a seat in a locomotive as a fireman on the old "Bison," locomotive No. 57. A year later he was given a switch engine.

Probably no employee on the Pacific lines is more widely known than Trott. Having spent a lifetime on Sacramento division, which was the first link constructed on the company's lines. From among his friends have come many of the company's officers. He knew J. H. Dyer as a boy at Colfax before the present general manager was a brakeman for the Central Pacific. As a young man he worked at Rocklin with "Pat" Sheedy, former superintendent of motive power. While Assistant General Manager T. Ahern was working his way up from his first job on the section, Charlie Trott was one of his closest friends.

Fugitive Is Free on Surrender
Marysville.—After evading arrest for six years, Joseph Ward, wanted for escaping from the Yuba county jail in 1919, while serving a term for burglary, was purged of his offense by Judge E. P. McDaniel following his voluntary surrender to police. Ward was freed by the court after presenting proof that he had served overseas during the war and since that time had been an officer of the state police in the east.

CONG. FREE ON RADIO COMMITTEE

A Californian, Congressman A. M. Free, of this district, is to play a very important part in the development of radio in the United States. He has been chosen chairman of the Radio Committee of the House of Representatives.

Some radio legislation was considered by the last Congress, but after many hearings and much deliberation, at the suggestion of the best radio experts available it was decided to leave the matter over to this Congress and in the meantime to observe what developed in the industry. During the year a system of near chaos has developed. There are only a limited number of wave lengths, or frequencies, as they are called, to be allocated for broadcasting. If too many stations use the same wave length interference results. All agree that the future of radio depends on satisfying the listeners, for without them there would be no incentive for radio broadcasting.

Applications for wave lengths for broadcasting are coming in at the rate of two a day as stations are springing up everywhere. Through international agreement six bands of wave lengths, or frequencies, were reserved for Canadian broadcasters, in consideration of which Canada permits the United States broadcasters to use all the rest of the wave lengths. A broadcasting pirate in the United States has now taken, without permission, one of the Canadian wave lengths. This may lead to serious complications; for if Canada thinks the United States is not acting in good faith her people may use wave lengths used by United States broadcasters and cause greater confusion.

Mr. Free is very decided about several things, among which are (1) that the ether must be held to belong to the public, (2) that all broadcasting is interstate commerce and must be regulated as such by the Federal Government, (3) that broadcasting must not become a monopoly, (4) that the listening public be entitled to protection from selfish broadcasters who, if permitted to do so, would destroy by too great interference all the pleasure of the listeners in.

The Radio Committee is now shaping up a bill which will be submitted to the Congress in a few days for the regulation will clear up the situation in the United States.

P. T. A.'S CELEBRATE FOUNDERS' DAY

On Tuesday afternoon the Parent and Teacher Associations of the High and Grammar School celebrated Founder's Day in joint session with Mrs. George Schuyler presiding. Although the attendance was small on account of the rain much business was transacted and an interesting program was given, consisting of talks by past presidents of the organizations. Each one related her story of work accomplished during her term of office and spoke of the co-operation spirit that has existed in the community and of the harmony between school and school patrons, which was the main objective in the organization of the Home and School Club. Few knew before the meeting that the W. C. T. U. were the organizers of the club and Mrs. Mac Whitman was the first chairman, the first president, however, was Miss Vinyard, a teacher in the grade schools.

Articles were read pertaining to the founding of the National congress of Parents and Teachers and a Memorial Tribute to Mrs. Theodore W. Birney our first national president. Contributions will be sent by both P. T. A.'s to be used in extension work.

The President asked for all mothers and kindergarten children to help in making slips for the mattresses used by their children who enjoy the rest hour. Miss Farman will have them cut out and ready to sew on Friday this week.

An announcement was made of the next Federation meeting in Cupertino on February 26th. Everyone is expecting to see Campbell show up in larger numbers this time. Plan to be at Cupertino School yourself and don't depend upon some one else to represent the associations.

A most urgent request was made to one and all to attend the Sixth District meeting that convenes in Campbell Feb. 17th. The two associations should attend 100 per cent. The State president, Mrs. Hugh Bradford will make her last official visit to the Sixth District and other able speakers will be heard. If you plan to have lunch in the school cafeteria and witness the candle-lighting ceremony, make your reservation with Mrs. Geo. Schuyler or Mrs. W. I. Merrill. Be sure and remember this courtesy to Miss Farman, who has so kindly made this pleasure possible for us.

Miss Mace's room won the prize for best attendance of mothers. After adjournment the ladies were served with delicious cake and coffee for which Mrs. Allegra Wood was the efficient chairman.

CAMPBELL CAGERS MEET IN TITLE CLASH

Friday evening, the Campbell unlimited team meets Palo Alto in the local gym in a game which practically decides the championship of the P. A. L. Palo Alto has not suffered a defeat so far. Campbell has only been defeated once and if they win this game they will be tied for the title. This will be the first time since the league games started that Campbell will be able to present their strongest line-ups. The boys have been hampered by sickness and injuries all season. Carl Nelson will be back at his regular position, center. Breck Reed and Clark will start at the forward positions and Shelley and Kalas will be the guards.

The Campbell 130's will play the Palo Alto 130's in the preliminary game, which will be a fast one. The Campbell team won its first P. A. L. game from San Mateo 8 to 6 last Friday night.

Soldier Now Rewarded

Washington.—Grave markers for America's soldier dead overseas will be of two designs—one a cross, the other a star of David mounted on a shaft—the material of both to be white stone or marble. The commission on designs has just reported to the secretary of war, who concurs.

CAMPBELL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ANNUAL BANQUET BIG SUCCESS

BIG CARNIVAL ENJOYED BY CAMPBELL FOLKS

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Miller and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Kennedy entertained a large gathering of friends Saturday evening at the Community Hall. The party was unique in every way from the invitations to the closing feature.

Patterned after a circus and carnival the guests were bidden to don costumes and come with plenty of carnival spirit.

The hall had been hung with M. and K. banners and interesting games and stunts arranged for the entire evening.

Noise makers and serpentine initiated the evening's fun into which the whole company entered with zest.

Miss Helen Baugh proved an adept palm reader, and expounded character freely. Mr. R. Allison, a very striking lady was elected "Queen" of the carnival, decorated with the usual crown and presided over the remainder of the evening.

Whenever E. R. Kennedy desires to retire from the real estate field he can readily secure a lucrative job as peanut and pop corn vender.

Mrs. H. M. Shadle dressed as a shepherdess sang very delightfully, "Doris," with violin obligato, by F. V. Perrott and piano accompaniment by Mrs. G. S. Robinson.

Mrs. R. H. Hyde was given 1st prize for costume and Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Merrill, 2nd. M. J. Bohnett won the tortoise race and H. M. Shadle the peanut race.

Mr. Ryan Booker, of San Jose had brought out a magnificent radio which supplied additional music.

The circus motif was carried out most originally in the refreshments. When the serving window was lowered a perfectly splendid array of standing elephants greeted the eye. These were huge cookies, beautifully iced with sandle blankets and set on standards that just fitted the tops of sealed paper ice-cream cups. Many indeed were the compliments paid the hostesses for their clever ideas and skillful fingers.

The rain and candle light during the early evening only added to the zest and spirit of the guests.

And Still Raining

F. M. Righter, government rain reporter for Campbell has submitted the following report:

Sept.—1925	0.01 inch
Oct.—1925	0.16 inch
Nov.—1925	1.02 inch
Dec.—1925	1.70 inch
Jan.—1926	4.60 inch
Total to Feb. 1—	7.49 inch
To 5 P. M. Tuesday	2.41 inch
Total	9.90 inch

C. E. York reports the total for the season at his home on Quito Road as 10.55 inches.

Stanford Y Coming

Sunday, Feb. 7, at 7:30 o'clock, P. M., at the Campbell Congregational Church there will be a Deputation team from the Stanford Y. M. C. A. to take charge of the evening service. The Senior Christian Endeavor will meet in the same service. The "Y" team is coming with a fine line of student speakers and has promised a quartette. Baylor Brooks, who is chairman of the Deputation Committee of the Stanford Y. M. C. A. will have charge of the program. Three student speakers discuss from their different view points "Christ, and the world Today." It is a vital message. Everyone is welcome.

Progress Reviewed

"One of the best we ever had." This was the practically unanimous opinion of the 150 guests who sat at the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce held at the grammar school cafeteria Friday evening. The delightful chicken dinner was prepared by the ladies of the Congregational church guild assisted by the Camp Fire girls in uniform as waitresses. Coffee was furnished and prepared by the Keystone Company. Before the banqueters were seated Camp Fire grace was sung by the girls.

The tables were very tastily set with dainty favors suggesting an idea of improvement and "blue birds of happiness" scattered about in abundance. At each place was placed one of the new publicity folders just issued by the Chamber of Commerce telling in a few words interesting bits of information concerning the Campbell community and its advantages.

Following the banquet community singing was led by W. E. Eckles, F. C. Farr, H. W. Morton, Antone Bonaccorso, W. S. Shelley, R. Saveker and H. C. Smith, assisted by Mrs. D. H. Cramer at the piano.

T. A. Cutting, vice president of the Chamber of Commerce acted as toast master giving some very interesting and entertaining sidelights on our town. In speaking of the progress and activities of the community he paid high compliment to the press, churches, schools and other organizations for the part each had played. (The fire department speaks for itself in no uncertain tones, and tells the world of its activities. Several concrete examples were given: Campbell avenue doubled; lumber yard expanded and housed; hardware capacity enlarged; cleaning establishment added; publicity enhanced; and specialized merchandising.

With the rapid growth of California Campbell must prepare to take care of her portion of new comers.

Every effort is being put forth to make "Santa Clara County Old Settlers Day at Campbell a county celebration this year and as such has been heartily endorsed by the County Consolidated.

President S. N. Hedegard extended a hearty welcome to all present and invited them to become Chamber members. He mentioned a few of the improvement plans for the coming year such as enlargement of fire and lighting districts; the proposed sanitary district to include Campbell, Los Gatos, Saratoga and Santa Clara; extension of Campbell avenue west and a modern hotel. He urged the immediate purchase of a site for a new high school which must be built within a few years. He also wished that Central and Hamilton avenues might soon be paved. Supervisor Martin expressed his willingness to do all possible in helping Campbell accomplish her improvement program.

W. A. Baylor, secretary of San Jose Merchants association gave a very interesting talk on "Community Life" showing the dependence of each activity on the others and necessity of harmonious co-operation of, educational, industrial and agricultural agencies. F. B. Barnes, manager of Nations Business and former secretary of the National Chamber of Commerce gave some very interesting and enlightening figures on the production and consumption of world products. He showed the progress of business from the primitive "barter and trade" to "honesty the best policy" and co-operation in all lines of industry.

We are pleased to call your attention to the Service System Stores advertisement appearing on page 14 in the San Jose Mercury Herald, Feb. 3. Each Wednesday these advertising specilas will appear and the merchandise offered will afford you a very substantial saving.

BIG TIM

Billy lived with mother and father. He was not strong like the other boys. One day after school Billy went out under the apple tree, and cried and cried because Big Tim and Jack would not play with him. Big Tim said Billy cannot play with us he is not strong enough. Jack said Billy cannot play with us he can not run fast enough. Billy was not strong. As Billy sat crying he heard a voice saying, "what are you crying about Billy." Billy jumped up, he saw a fairy with a wand. I want to be as big as Big Tim. Then she whispered something in Billy's ear. Then he ran into the house, washed his face and hands and combed his hair. At supper he asked for milk. At seven o'clock he popped into bed. In the morning he sat down to breakfast and he saw something black besides his plate, he pushed it away and said I drink milk now. When he went to school that day they had races. He won every one. At recess Big Tim and Jack said we want Billy to play with us now. You see Billy got strong drinking milk.

GRAMMAR NOTES

Miss Mace's Class, the low 8th grade gave their reception to the graduating class Tuesday evening. It was one of the most enjoyable and successful ever given at the school.

The following program was given:

Class History—Elbert LeFevre
Class Song—High 8th.
Class Will—George Lamphear.
Alfred Siegler, Class President of High 8th, presented the class mascot to the Low 8th and the three class pets to Miss Naylor, Miss Neilsen and Mr. Abbott.

Games were played, and arranged and managed by Miss Mace, Harold Gardner and Carolyn Lund.

Refreshments were served later in the evening.

Miss Fablinger, class teacher, and Mr. Abbott were given handsome presents by the graduating class.

The new publicity folder issued by Campbell Chamber of Commerce is just off the press and ready for distribution. It is printed in brown on india tinted book making a neat and attractive advertisement. It contains several cuts of industries, business streets, library and school with brief statements of location and advantages of our thriving community.

WHAT'S WRONG WITH THE WORLD?

Rest quietly in your easy chair tonight; draw the curtains about you and think. What is wrong with the world? Settle the question with yourself whether it is the tariff, the coal strike, poison booze, flappers, Congress, the independence of youth, divorce, the weather, the parole system, white bread, lack of vitamins, static, landlords, the foreign debts, the crop outlook, or too much publicity for the ex-Kaiser. After you have decided to your own satisfaction which or how many of these things are contributing to the lack of peace and contentment of yourself and mankind, go to sleep. Arise next morning and begin your day's work with freshness and ardor. You will then wonder why you ever wondered that there was anything wrong with the world. This prescription seldom fails to cure. Should it fail, however, you get your agony back.

NO MORE SHENANDOAHS

The naval board of inquiry recommends that the building of airships of the type of the ill-fated Shenandoah be stopped. This suggests the question—why such large things, anyway? The Anglo-Saxon idea of excellency has seemed to be size, as reflected in the struggle for great populations, tall buildings, and grandeur by force of enormity in material construction. Even the lowly fountain pen has become conspicuous by its diameter. Some of the architects have long ago advised abandonment of the old style skyscraper on the ground that greater safety and utility can be had in smaller types of buildings. Smaller houses, lighter automobiles, and miniature things in general foretell the order of tomorrow. Except in football or the boxing ring, avoidupois is not necessarily an asset, nor is the human "skyscraper" except in picture-hanging time.

CONCERNING TAXES

"As certain as death or taxes," runs the homely old proverb.

"Taxation is the most brutal thing in the world. If you don't pay your taxes along comes the sheriff and sells your accumulations of years. If you do not have the money to pay your taxes, and lose everything you have, you get little or no sympathy from your friends or neighbors. Therefore, taxation being so brutal, should rest as lightly as possible upon the shoulders of the citizenry."

Most of the taxes we pay are self-imposed, for expenditure is our own immediate locality—school, city, road, county taxes. Every man may choose largely for himself, whether his taxes are to be high or low, constructive or confiscatory. The more we demand from the public treasury, the higher our taxes will go.

SCIENCE AND THE RACE

Science tells us that television is the next practical step in radio. In other words, we will see as well as hear at long distance and without limit. Along with this comes advancement in methods of transportation. Here is a practical conflict. If we may sit at home and see, hear, talk with and comprehend all that is going on in the world, what need will there be to use the airship, or, in fact, to travel anywhere? Speculation in these matters is, of course, futile, since there have been few, if any, scientific discoveries or inventions to which members of the human race have not adjusted themselves.

IT'S ALL IN THE MACHINERY

For the second time in its history the U. S. Senate adopted the cloture rule limiting debate. The world court was the issue. The success or failure of all legislative and deliberative bodies depends largely on the machinery or the actual systems of procedure by which bills and proposals are determined. To the outsider these forms seem unimportant if not trivial, but to those who must abide by them they mean about everything. The detail of ceremony, the psychology of time, and the influence of personality have decided the fate of many measures of national and world importance.

Thirty-seven correspondence courses in agriculture are offered this year by the state college of agriculture. They may be started by any one at any time and the only charge is a fee of $2.

CLUB ENTERTAINED

AT SOCIAL MEETING

The program arranged by the committee for the Monday's meeting of the Country Woman's Club was a most delightful one. Everyone is always pleased when either of the Misses Kalas is on the program and this time both were present. Miss Bozena accompanying her sisters songs.

In accordance with the theme of the afternoon, Miss Helen sang a group of poems which had been set to music. They were, Shakespeare's, "Love's Labor Lost" the verses beginning, "When Daisies pied and violets blue," Dickens's "Charity," the music by Hegemann and "The Feast of Lanterns" by an old Chinese poet, the composer being Bantock, and were a lovely group.

Mrs. Carboni, chairman, read a short definition of poetry and then presented Mrs. Edith Daley, poet and San Jose librarian. She read an introductory paper on poetry that was a poem in itself, and then happily entertained the gathering by reading a number of her verses, explaining the "why" of most of them in a very delightful way. Tears and laughter followed closely upon each other as the themes varied. Dainty cakes and tea were served at the close.

The Club voted to entertain the County Federation in March. Mrs. Carboni was assisted by Mrs. C. F. Rubell, Mrs. Hedegard, Mrs. Lenox and Miss Maxson, members of her committee and others of the club.

SARATOGA HOST

TO CONSOLIDATED

At a meeting held at the luncheon hour at the Saratoga Inn of Saratoga T. P. Andrews made the announcement that the possibility of the adoption of plans for the financing of the Bay Shore Highway was highly favorable. Andrews as Chairman of the Bay Shore Highway Committee of the Down Town Association of San Francisco has been working strenuously for the past two years to bring the project to a successful conclusion.

In response to an invitation from Wendell C. Thomas, president of the Consolidated organization, Andrews presented to an organized group for the first time the latest developments of the Highway that will connect San Francisco with San Jose in a direct line. Representatives from nearly every community in the County heard Andrews review steps that have been taken since the inauguration of the campaign for this highway. Although there has been no publicity on the project since the legislature adjourned the committee has been working continuously.

"The federal government is interested in that road from San Francisco to San Jose, and it will be the greatest piece of highway on the Pacific Coast. It now looks as if we are about to arrive at the satisfactory solution of the problems that have been facing us, and I have reason to be confident that our hopes will be fully realized."

A great deal of discussion was brought forth by the preliminary statement of facts concerning the conservation of the valley water supply of W. K. Roberts of Sunnyvale, chairman of the irrigation committee. It was reported that wells to the depth of 840 feet had been sunk and that a great supply of water had been opened up. Depths of wells and supply of water in various parts of the county were reported.

On February 15th, the Board of Supervisors will listen to Mr. Bailey, a state official, tell of his findings concerning various methods of conservation in other counties. Roberts also announced that unless plans were changed Bailey would present that same day at the San Jose Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. I. N. Scott, president of the Saratoga Improvement Association, reported that fine progress on the organization of the annual blossom festival had been made. The San Francisco Symphony Orchestra will be an added feature of this year's festival it was announced.

A resolution was passed to the effect that Prune week this coming fall shall be a Santa Clara County Consolidated affair. Many suggestions as to distribution and advertising value were made.

S. N. Hedegard of Campbell announced that the 32nd Annual celebration of Old Settler's Day will be held Feb. 22nd. He requested that the names of the names of the old settlers be sent to him so that invitations could be extended to them to attend. This year it will be known as Santa Clara Valley Old Settler's Day, and we want all the old settlers of the Valley to attend, he said.

It was announced that rapid progress was being made on the county advertising booklet. The best pictures obtainable are being used and the hearty cooperation of each community has been gratifying to the committee.

President Thomas announced that Colvin Brown, known as the greatest Chamber of Commerce organizer in the United States, would address the San Jose Chamber of Commerce forum, February 25th at 12:15 and invited all to attend.

Those present at the meeting were: Campbell—S. N. Hedegard, Harry C. Smith, Ralston Allison, T. A. Cutting; Saratoga—Mrs. L. N. Scott, Fred H. Gardner, Dr. Robert Hogg, W. S. Wise, Lydia N. Miller, Luther Cunningham, J. B. T. Tuthill, I. J. Hanchett, Jean Kerr, Mrs. W. Miller, Harold B. Johnson, John S. Graham, A. Metzger, Mrs. Chas. C. Bell, E. A. Smith, Sheldon P. Patterson, Mrs. Johnson; Los Gatos—Major H. S. Hosetter, E. F. Smiley; Palo Alto—Ray W. Smith, B. W. Read; Santa Clara—Will B. Weston; Gilroy—F. C. Staniford, Mrs. F.

Golden State

News of Interest to All

Surrounded by derrick-covered foothills, an oil production ranking high in the state and with increasing agriculture, Coalinga has grown from a struggling little mining town in the eighties to the business center of western Fresno county.

Merced, Merced county, will be the scene of the annual San Joaquin initiation of Elks' lodges this year, it was announced recently by W. L. White, general manager of the Yosemite Valley railroad, appointed chairman of the arrangements committee.

The action of the state board of control and the state board of prison directors in rejecting the offer of Stephen E. Kleffer, San Francisco engineer, to purchase the state-owned dam site at Folsom prison was approved by Governor Friend W. Richardson.

A new California religious cult has begun operations with the granting of a state charter to the Mohawk Association of Psychic Unfoldment. The organization, head by D. H. Roush of Arcadia, Los Angeles county, announces it intends to "cultivate spirituality and demonstrate the truth of modern spiritualism."

One hundred and seventy thousand dollars of the $1,000,000 budget appropriated by the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railway for improvements in the San Joaquin valley will be spent in Kern county, of which sum $127,000 will be allotted to betterments and extensions in Bakersfield and $43,000 at other points in the county.

A coating of ice that formed on pools of water on the flooring of the Feather river bridge near Marysville, Yuba county, caused temporary cessation of traffic between Marysville and Yuba City. The driver of a team of horses attached to a garbage wagon was compelled to tie sacks to the hoofs of the animals to make the crossing.

The seventy-eighth anniversary of gold discovery on January 24, brings to mind the part that agriculture has played in the history of Coloma, El Dorado county, during the past seventy-six years. Gold was discovered here in 1848 and during the following years the pioneers arrived here and in the Sierra Nevada foothills by the thousands to seek it. All, at first, were eager only for gold, but later some turned aside for farming. In 1850 seven fruit farms were started here and fruit farming has flourished ever since, while mining became a lost industry.

A. E. Miot, secretary of the Tulare County Board of Trade, at Visalia, reporting to his directors in the annual meeting recently held, announced partial figures of the recent farm survey conducted in that county, as well as elsewhere, by the federal bureau of the census, which indicates the steady development of farm lands even beyond the general conclusions. The total number of farms now listed in Tulare county, according to these figures, is 7,105, which represents an increase of 734 over the figures compiled from the federal census of 1920.

California is preparing 372 persons handicapped by physical disability for new vocations to which they are suited, it was announced by I. W. Kibby, chief of the rehabilitation bureau, state department of education. This total, Kibby said, does not include 89 persons recently forced to discontinue training temporarily because of illness. The state bureau's work is distinct from rehabilitation of former service men and designed to provide new occupations for persons disabled through illness or industrial accidents.

BOTH GREAT LEADERS

Names of Lincoln and Lee Closely Associated.

Last year's anniversary—the one hundred and sixteenth—of the birth of Abraham Lincoln was unique for the coupling with it of a commemoration of Robert Edward Lee. Formal exercises in honor of the two men were held in the Hall of Fame for Great Americans at New York university, in which there have long been memorial tablets for them both; and elsewhere the two names were—always have been—closely associated.

It will not be overlooked, either, that steps have been taken for the rehabilitation and safeguarding of Lee's old home; and the government is planning the construction of a monumental bridge across the Potomac, leading directly from the Lincoln memorial to Arlington.

It is well. We have passed the sixtieth anniversary of the ending of the Civil war in the surrender of Lee to Grant at Appomattox. Without in even an infinitesimal degree repudiating the sentiments of that time, or lessening the significance of the Civil war and its irrevocable arbitrament of the supreme issue of national union, we must regard it as fitting to recognize an accomplished fact of sixty years as a closed chapter in our history.

It would be as foolish to expect the South to forget Lee, or to cease to honor him, as it would to expect the North similarly to ignore Lincoln. It is not unreasonable to expect both and all parts of the country to recognize and to honor the intrinsic virtues of them both—each the indisputably best representative of the cause for which he strove. And we have no question that if, in the Elysian fields, the mighty shade of Lincoln is regardless of what now happens in this world, he will give benign approval to this commemorative coupling with his own name the name of his one-time most formidable antagonist. —Washington Post.

Off the Family Tree

Henry White, the famous diplomat, told a family anecdote at a luncheon at Elm court, his Lenox villa.

"One of my ancestors," he said, "was irregular in his church attendance, but he had two colored men servants who were never absent from divine service.

"The parson met my ancestor on the road one day and said:

"Look here, colonel, I don't see you very often in your pew in church."

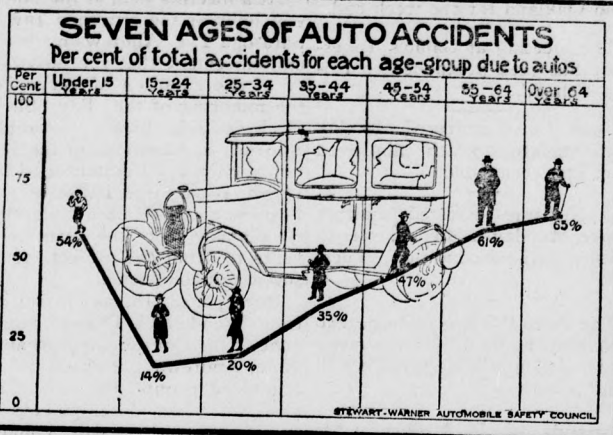

"No, parson you don't, but my two niggers are always there."

"Yes, that's true," said the parson, "but two blacks don't make a white."

Predicts Aerial Cities

An amazing picture of future cities built far above the earth on platforms reached by tower elevators is presented by Frederick Kiesler, a prominent young Viennese architect. He predicts that houses in the future will be built on platforms supported by steel girders several hundred feet above the ground. They will be erected above beautiful gardens, shady forests, or even above lakes or the sea. Platforms will be provided, too, as landing places for airplanes, he believes. —Popular Science Monthly.

Shakespeare Up-to-Date Tells Motorists' Terrible Toll

SHAKESPEARE'S seven ages of mankind made no reference to the number who were cut off in their prime by automobiles. If he had, suggests a parody on his famous lines:

At first the infant,
Killed by a truck while in his nurse's arms,
And then the careless schoolboy with his marbles,
Playing in the streets after his lessons
Are over. And then the lover,
Absent-minded, walking with a box of candy
Under his arm, to see his loved one,
Is struck by a taxi and hurled to the ground.
Next comes the gay young blood
Out for his evening's entertainment, whom
Sixty miles an hour lands forty years too soon
Upon a slab in some unfriendly morgue.
And then the banker, full of worldly pride and honors,
Jay-walks across the street between two mighty deals of finance,
And wakes to find Saint Peter quizzing him.
Next, the family man, with years upon him,
Confused and jostled in the crowd,
Missteps, and dies amid thanksgiving
That his last premium was paid up.
And last, hoary age, tottering and feeble,
Perhaps with crutch, or eye too dimmed with time,
An easy victim for some selfish motorist.
Sans care, sans thought, sans skill, sans everything—but speed.
The chart above shows what proportion of all accidents happening to each age group are automobile accidents. The toll is highest for the very young and very old. This situation is explained partly by the heedlessness of the young and the infirmity of old age. Moreover, these two groups are least involved in industrial accidents which makes their automobile casualties constitute a larger part of their total accidents.

Rival of Hashimura Togo

Wallace Irwin's Hashimura Togo has nothing on a young Chinese who applied for a position with an English firm in Shanghai. Here is the letter the young man wrote: "Honored Sir—I beg to drop you a line, hoping it will not draw frown from you. My friend the bootmaker contents me that you are in search, hunting for a junior Kraniman, and I beg to nominate myself for the post whatever. In stating you, however, I am a family man (four times) a young Chinese, my age therefore is 22 years 1½ months last birthday, should you esteem me favorably to get the job I may state that I carry you satisfactorily, by punctually, industry, honesty and respectability. I am affectionate with the typewriter, and altogether of a painstaking individuality. Further I am a good talking Englishman and would be fond to work for you. Hopping you are good healths and apologizing for same." Since the young man failed to send his address, he failed to get the job.

American Trade Only

"Americans are likely to believe that China is a land made up solely of laundries and restaurants and that perhaps the Chinese are trained from childhood in the arts of washing and cooking," says an American who recently returned from a tour of the East. "Strangely enough, washing and cooking are foreign fields to the male Chinese in China. There the women wash the clothes on stones in running streams and cook their food in true Chinese fashion, while the men work in various native industries and for a small wage." —Detroit News.

$200,000 Fire Injures Two

Los Angeles.—A lumber yard fire here resulted in probable fatal burns to one man, minor burns to another and damage estimated at $200,000.

Confronted by a prospective labor shortage which threatens to seriously handicap summer and fall harvests of the San Joaquin valley, representatives of farm bureaus, chambers of commerce and allied interests of the agricultural industry of seven counties in session at Fresno recently, took steps preliminary to the organization of an agency which will collect and distribute farm labor throughout seven counties.

Where bands of wild horses once ranged, and where elk and antelope roamed unmolested in amazing numbers three-quarters of a century ago, Selma, Fresno county, business men now quest for the prizes of modern civilization, their children throng the schools and their industries, of which there was no trace, have in the lapse of less than a lifetime builded a young, prosperous and promising city.

Boss Had Own Ideas of Financial Ratings

John L. Lewis, the miners' leader, said in an interview in Atlantic City:

"I'll tell you a story. A young wife said to her husband:

"George, everything has gone up but your wages. Rent, clothes, food everything. And our two babies are getting bigger and costlier every day."

"I know it," moaned George, "but what can I do, with my miserable eighteen per?"

"Tackle your boss, George," said his wife. "Tell him a dollar is only worth 50 cents today. Maybe he'll raise you, then, from eighteen to thirty-six."

"I will," said George. "I'll tackle him."

"So he tackled his boss that morning."

"Boss," he said, "a dollar is only worth 50 cents today."

"Yes, George, that's true," said the boss. "I'll bear it in mind. What pay are you drawing, George?"

"Eighteen bucks a week."

"Well, I'll bear it in mind. Now get on with your work."

"George got on with his work cheerfully. He knew a great change was coming. And sure enough, when pay day came around, the cashier handed him out—nine dollars."

Found Something New to Say About Climate

We are always hearing stories of how we Californians throw bouquets at our climate; of how we knock the East and don't even wait for the excursion rates in order to get back home. But now comes the story of a Californian, Randall Morris of Los Angeles, who paid a compliment to North Conway, New Hampshire, with surprising results. "I am really surprised to find your climate so salubrious," remarked the Los Angeles man to the bus driver on the way to Crawford Notch.

"Gosh a'mighty!" exclaimed the driver. "Write that down, will you, mister? I get tired of swearin' at this climate in the same old way all the time, and you've sure sprung a new one!" —Los Angeles Times.

According to W. G. Ralston, assistant state club leader, there were 2,988 boys and girls who were members of clubs in California in 1925. Forty counties were represented. In most of them good profits were shown.

A large building program is being carried out in Dunsmuir, Siskiyou county. Under course of construction is the Masonic temple. The $30,000 organ to be installed in the T. and D. theater in the temple has arrived.

Diseased Poultry Must Not Be Sent to Market

"Be extra careful not to send a sick fowl to market," reads a warning sent to 92 county farm bureaus by F. A. Gougler, director of the poultry and egg department of the Illinois Agricultural association.

"We should not forget the serious epidemic of poultry diseases that developed throughout the country last year and which may appear again this year," the statement reads. "Since symptoms of many diseases are very much alike, every effort should be made to prevent sick birds from reaching the market, which may cause another embargo."

The appearance of the chicken disease which caused the embargo to be placed on live poultry last year has begun again to show up in the New York market. The embargo last winter caused great loss to western farmers. Director Gougler issues this warning with the hope that the spread of the disease and ultimate loss may be prevented this year, and to forestall the embargo, which was so disastrous last year.

Government and state authorities are working quietly but thoroughly to stamp out the disease wherever it appears.

Pertinent Suggestions to All Poultry Owners

The following questions which are put to the record book keepers of Iowa by the Iowa State college are pertinent suggestions to all poultry keepers. "Do you Remember?" they say:

When milk ever spoiled the fertility or hatchability of an egg?

When a chick didn't make good growth when it had milk in its ration?

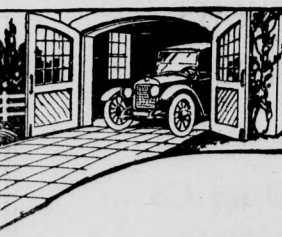

What time you used to have getting a lot of early chicks hatched with hens?

When you had a mongrel flock and wished some one would come along and get you started with a good breed?

The time you had raising chicks on the old ground that had been used for 25 years without a change?

How your chicks acted when they were affected by worms and coccidiosis?

How you tried to fight internal parasites without new ground?
